

Dr. Thomas H. Norton of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, whose splendid work has blazed the way for us to be independent of Germany in the matter of dyestuffs and other very necessary chemicals.
Photo by Press Illustrating Service, Inc.

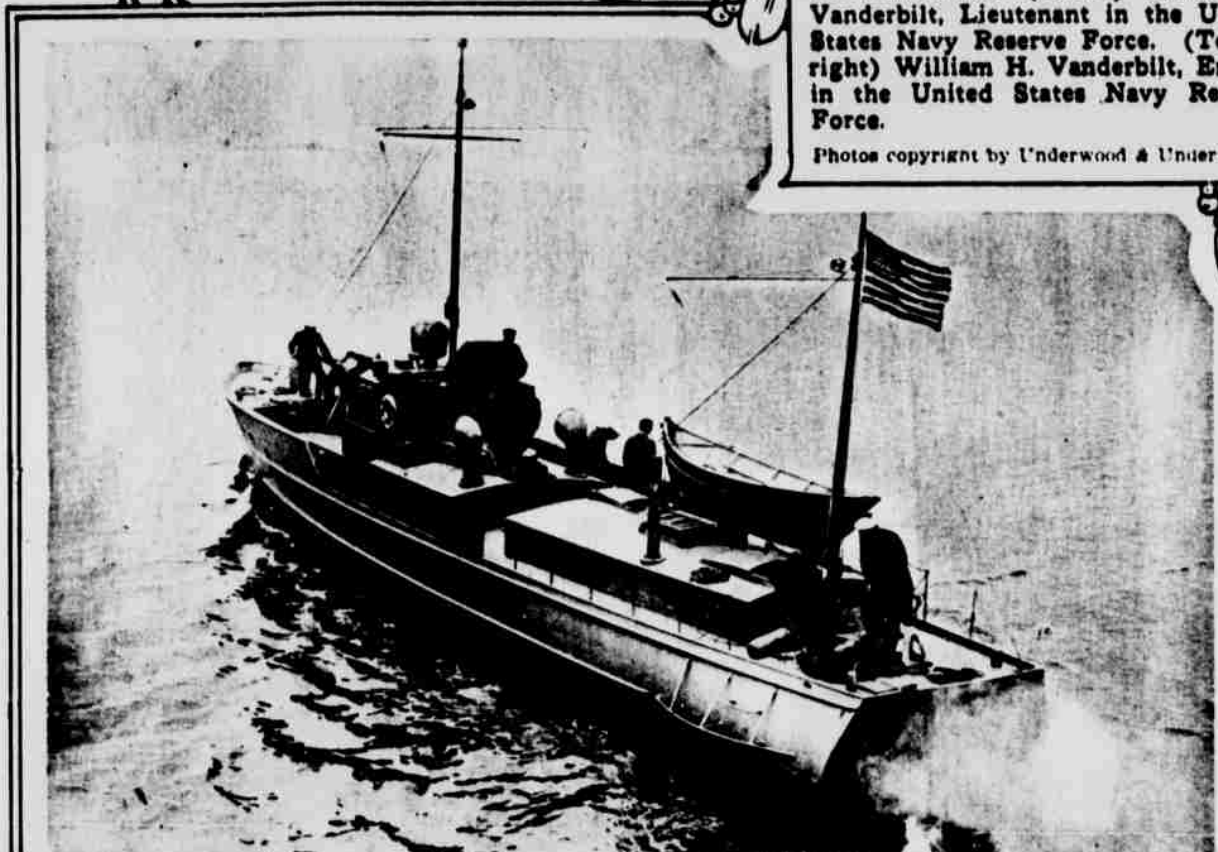

Francis S. Peabody of Chicago, one of our biggest coal operators, who has turned his back upon his own business that he may serve upon the Council of National Defence in charge of the important problem of the nation's fuel supply.

Photo copyright by Harris & Ewing.

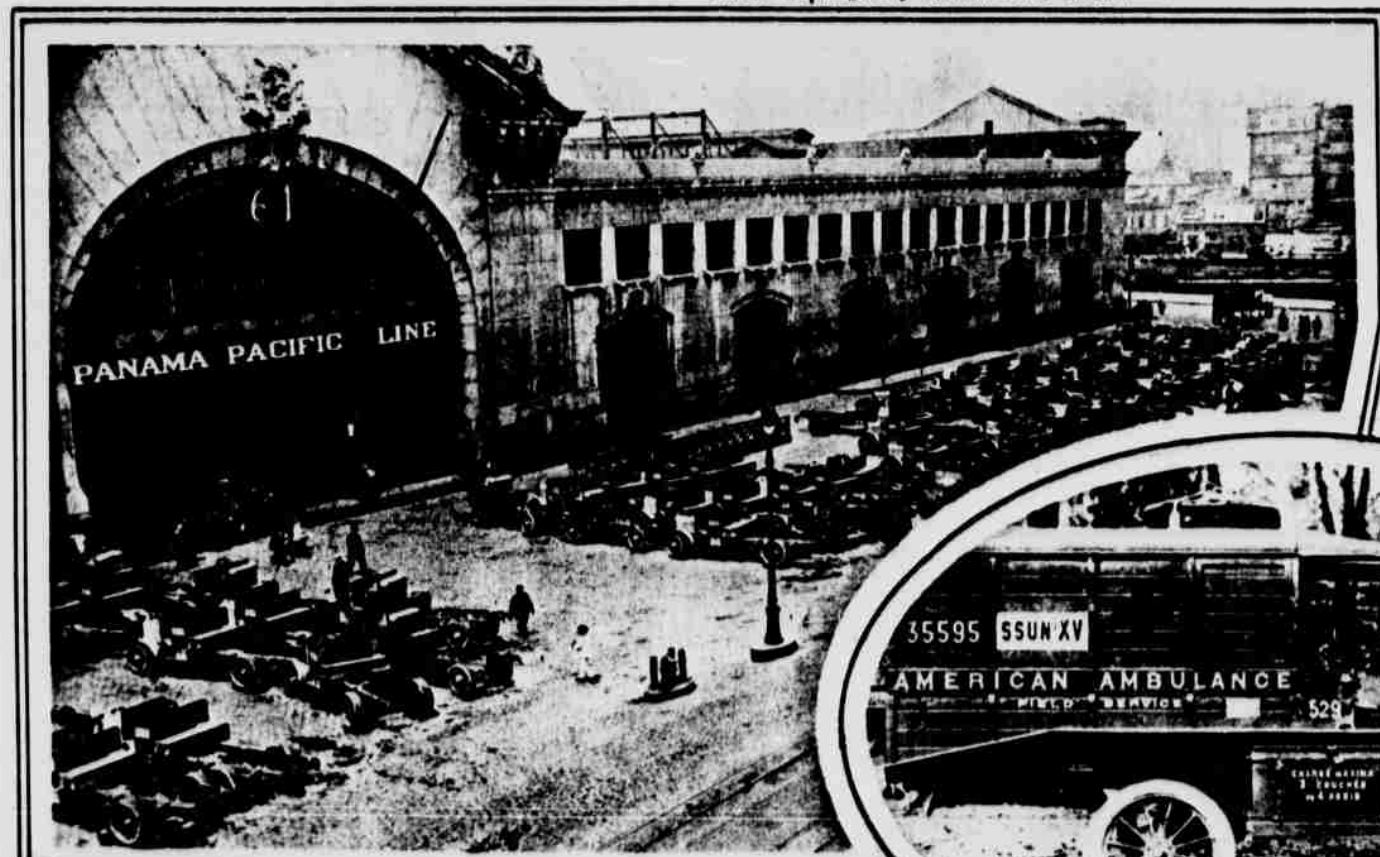

Ready to back the Government with their bodies and brains as well as their wealth. (To the left) Young William K. Vanderbilt. (Above) Harold S. Vanderbilt, Lieutenant in the United States Navy Reserve Force. (To the right) William H. Vanderbilt, Ensign in the United States Navy Reserve Force.

Photos copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

The submarine chaser aboard which Lieut. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is serving somewhere on the Atlantic coast.

Photo copyright by Underwood & Underwood

Above—Every week scores upon scores of motor trucks are shipped to the battle fronts of Europe. In oval—David Van Alstyne, Jr., of New York city driving a Red Cross ambulance in France.

Photo by Model & Nordstrom

Fiji Islanders, in Honolulu, en route to Europe to lend their aid to the warring British: proving in this way their loyalty to the flag that protects them.

Photo by Underwood & Underwood